Overview

The AirWerx 90X unit is a 90 pint a day dehumidifier. Built with the revolutionary new horizontal design with uniquely placed airflow outlets that allow this unit to be able to generate air circulation in the spaces installed. This dehumidifier is designed and built to control the humidity levels in airtight space like the crawl space or the basement where the air circulation is limited.

The AirWerx 90X is small in size and built to be light in weight to make it easy to move from one room to the other. This unit is also equipped with a duct for focused dehumidification. Built with sheet metal housing, that ensures the unit is compact and durable.

Unique Functionalities

Remote control - The AirWerx 90X is equipped with a full control remote connection that will save you time and make it convenient for you to adjust the unit settings from anywhere.

Heavy-duty condensate pump - The AirWerx 90X is one of the few small sizes and affordable dehumidifier with a pump. The condensate pump pumps the water extracted from the space out through a pipe, where it is poured out far from the house. This means you will never have to waste time and energy draining the collected water.

Features

- 1. In-built overheating protection features.
- 2. Rare earth alloy tube evaporator with stainless side plate for durability.
- 3. Easy access to the pump and mainboard – for easy maintenance.
- 4. Filter for air purification.
- 5. Remains fully operational at low temperatures.
- 6. Auto defrosting system.
